

Educational Evaluation and Policy Analysis

Volume 32, Number 2

June 2010

*Does State Merit-Based Aid Stem Brain Drain?	143
Liang Zhang and Erik C. Ness
*An Investigation of the Relationship Between Retention in First Grade and Performance on High Stakes Tests in Third Grade	166
Jan N. Hughes, Qi Chen, Felix Thoemmes, and Oi-man Kwok
*Targeted Funding for Educationally Disadvantaged Students: A Regression Discontinuity Estimate of the Impact on High School Student Achievement	183
Gary T. Henry, C. Kevin Fortner, and Charles L. Thompson
*Principal Preferences and the Uneven Distribution of Principals Across Schools	205
Susanna Loeb, Demetra Kalogrides, and Eileen Lai Horng
*Are Students of Color More Likely to Graduate From College if They Attend More Selective Institutions? Evidence From a Cohort of Recipients and Nonrecipients of the Gates Millennium Scholarship Program	230
Tatiana Melguizo
*Implementing Literacy Coaching: The Role of School Social Resources	249
Lindsay Clare Matsumura, Helen E. Garnier, and Lauren B. Resnick
*Supplemental Education Services Under No Child Left Behind: Who Signs Up, and What Do They Gain?	273
Carolyn J. Heinrich, Robert H. Meyer, and Greg Whitten
*The Price of Misassignment: The Role of Teaching Assignments in Teach For America Teachers' Exit From Low-Income Schools and the Teaching Profession	299
Morgan L. Donaldson and Susan Moore Johnson
*Students Left Behind: Measuring 10th to 12th Grade Student Persistence Rates in Texas High Schools	324
Thurston Domina, Bonnie Ghosh-Dastidar, and Marta Tienda
Erratum	347

*Accepted under the editorship of Drew Gitomer and Laura Goe

American Educational Research Association

SAGE

Los Angeles | London | New Delhi
Singapore | Washington DC